WHY BOOK SHARON

Sharon Sherman is not the speaker who shows up with a deck full of statistics and leaves before the questions start. She stays. She listens. She has been in this industry for more than 25 years, holds dual certification in interior design and kitchen and bath design, and has seen just about everything there is to see. She brings all of it into the room with her, the knowledge, the stories, the hard-won lessons, and she delivers it the way she does everything: with genuine warmth, a sharp sense of humor, and a real desire to help her industry grow.

SHARON SPEAKS ON...

Interior Design, Kitchen and Bath: Where Two Disciplines Meet
Sharon holds elite credentials in both interior design and kitchen and bath design, making her one of the few practitioners in the country who can speak to both disciplines and the relationship between them.

Wellness and the Built Environment
Sharon explores the intersection of design, sensory experience, and human wellbeing

The Business of Design
Topics focus on the systems, strategies, and mindset shifts that separate a thriving design practice from one that is always catching up.

Client and Contractor Relationships
Conversations include communication strategies, personality dynamics, and managing difficult situations before they become costly ones.

Luxury Appliances and the Culinary Experience
From specification to lifestyle, Sharon helps designers understand what luxury really means in a kitchen and how to choose accordingly.

Tile as a Design Language
Sharon explains how to move confidently between quiet luxury and bold maximalism, with a deep understanding of materials, patterns, installation, and the role tile plays across every room.

Networking and Visibility
Practical strategies for building a design business through authentic human connection.

The Future of Design and AI
How artificial intelligence is reshaping the design industry and why emotional intelligence and human connection remain irreplaceable.

Designed to Age Gracefully: Wine at Home
A design course that blends wine fundamentals with practical application.
